COSTING BASIS

Research and assumptions | Applies to all 14 pricing pages

How the estimates were calculated

Per person = hotel rooms (2 adults per room) + listed meals + route-specific admission/activity allowance + intercity allowance + group vehicle/guide allowance divided by guest count. The final USD amount is rounded up to USD 10. HKD values use that rounded USD amount x 7.80; group totals equal the per-person price x group size.

Accommodation budgets - assumptions, not hotel quotations

Mainland China: USD 100 / room / night for 4-star and USD 170 for 5-star. Hong Kong: USD 180 and USD 280 respectively. Breakfast and a provisional tax/service allowance are included. No particular hotel, room or inventory is confirmed.

Shared ground-service budgets - assumptions

USD 260 per sightseeing-equivalent day for 2 adults, covering private vehicle, driver and local English guide; group multipliers for 4/6/8/10 adults are 1.20/1.45/1.60/1.80. Add USD 120 per group for transfer logistics and USD 450 when Hong Kong is included, subject to the same multiplier. Itinerary 1 deducts USD 60 because an arrival transfer is not stated. These are budgeting allowances, not published DMC tariffs.

Transport and meal basis

Second-class seats on listed rail sectors; economy cabin with provisional taxes on listed flights. Both hotel categories use the same transport class. Standard private vehicles on listed road touring/transfer sectors; itinerary 4 retains its scheduled airport bus. Listed restaurant meals: USD 22 per adult. Cruise lunches are counted inside admission/activity allowances.

Published benchmarks checked 30 September 2026

BeijingService publishes size-based standard and deluxe tariffs for an 8-day Beijing-Xian-Shanghai private tour. IslamiChina publishes 4-star/5-star size bands for a 6-day Beijing-Shanghai train tour. These are public package prices for different itineraries, not verified wholesale quotations for Travel Tricks. They were used only to assess the broad market level and group-size pattern.
